HANDY-WATTS HOUSE - c. 1876 - 7511 L'Hirondelle Club Road, Ruxton. Large Victorian house with double Gothic cross-gables in main facade. House was built in two states, with gable and hip roofing, German siding. This large structure is a total replacement of the old Hector's Hopyard house shown on Taylor's 1857 map. Date of construction unknown but was possibly built about 1876 for Thomas P. Handy. Shown as James M. Drill's house "Roland Heights" on E. Robinson's 1882 map. Both Victorian and Colonial revival elements inside. Measurements were 51 x 24 and 33 by 50 in 1918 tax list. In 1989, no traces could be found in attic or cellar to show the remains of a starter house from the 18th Century.
